In 1961, the Christian Church Foundation was planted, the idea of a handful of visionary leaders who believed Disciples would be well-served if they had their own foundation to encourage planned giving as an additional form of stewardship.

In 51 years, that seed has grown – nurtured by faithful Disciples – to where it now stands as a sturdy tree, providing for the church through planned gifts and prudent fund management. 2012 was a tremendous year for your Foundation. With $8.2 million in new permanent fund gifts, $29.4 million in new deposits and strong investment returns, the Foundation ended the year by crossing the $500 million mark in assets for the first time in our history.

These numbers are important because of the Foundation’s role as a steward. More importantly, however, these numbers convey the faith individual Disciples have for the future of the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ) as they provide the resources to enhance the witness of congregations, regions, general ministries and other institutions and church ministries. These gifts are expressions of the love and trust Disciples have for the ministries of the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ). These legacy gifts are the tangible expressions of the donors’ faith witness and commitment to the Gospel.

The Foundation in 2012 distributed $7.2 million according to the donors’ instructions, a 4.2% increase from 2011. Disciples ministries and institutions who have investments with the Foundation also used the income from their investments to further their individual witnesses.

The Foundation participates in the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ) mission to be a movement for wholeness in a fragmented world by:

- Providing donors an opportunity to match their resources with their passions. Through planned giving opportunities, including life-income gifts, donor-advised funds and permanent funds, donors can direct their legacy gifts to Disciples ministries and other charities. Congregations also can extend their ministry beyond their lifetimes by converting their assets into permanent funds that benefit ongoing and future ministries. These legacy congregations, though their doors may have closed, are providing ongoing witness and service.
  - During 2012, $8.2 million -- the largest amount since the start of the 21st Century -- was given for permanent funds.
    - $5.0 million was given for permanent funds by individuals as outright gifts or from bequest and estate gifts. These dollars will support Disciples ministries into the future.
$3.2 million was given by legacy congregations as a way to continue their witness. These congregations, like individual donors, advise future distributions to the ministries they choose to support.

Individuals contributed another $1.0 million to fund gifts that will provide life-income payments to individuals with the charitable remainder going to ministry.

- Undergirding the work of the church, in its varied expressions, through permanent fund distributions that keep the Disciples of Christ witness vital. Endowment funds, provided by individuals through bequests and planned gifts and by legacy congregations, extend the witness of individual ministries and causes beyond their annual stewardship efforts. Many donors also provide a gift for the benefit of the church’s common mission funding system.
  - In 2012
    - Donors established 86 new permanent funds, bringing the total under Foundation management to 1,300 funds, with a total market value of $130.7 million.
    - Six new legacy congregations extended their witness by using their remaining assets to undergird ongoing ministries. A total of 73 Disciples legacy congregations have entrusted their assets to the Foundation to benefit the church’s future witness.
    - Distributions from permanent funds, matured deferred gifts, donor-directed and donor-advised accounts (Steward’s Bank) totaled $7.2 million.
    - Of the $7.2 million distributed during 2012, more than $822,000 went directly to Disciples Mission Fund to support the church’s witness.

- Offering church ministries cost-effective and prudent investment services. By focusing on long-term, endowment-type investing, the Foundation provides church ministries holding endowment funds with an investment program that is in complete alignment with their interests. The investment services program gives church ministries cost-effective access to a sophisticated asset mix that is specifically designed for endowment-type investing, as well as oversight processes that most ministries are unable to perform. The Joint Investment Trust is an all-inclusive solution for the church’s long-term endowment assets. This investment service provides ministries of the church disciplined investment and spending counsel as they seek hands-on ways to be a movement for wholeness in a fragmented world.
  - In 2012, the Foundation received $29.4 million in new deposits into its subject-to-withdrawal accounts, the most in a single year since 2006.
    - The Foundation’s Joint Investment Trust holds almost $441.3 million of the church’s money under its care. Total Foundation assets, including operations and life-income gifts, totaled $501.7 million at the end of 2012.
    - The Joint Investment Trust’s pooled funds returns, net of maximum costs, for 2012, were:
      - Beasley Growth Fund: 13.9% in 2012; average return since inception in December 1985, 9.0%
- Common Balanced Fund: 12.2% in 2012; average return since inception in December 1985, 7.8%
- Campbell Multi-Strategy Fund: 12.5% in 2012; average return since inception in February 2008, 0.5%
- Brown Income Fund: 9.5% in 2012; average return since inception in December 1989, 6.5%
  - The economic markets, while volatile, rewarded investors who maintained discipline and were able to stay the course. Despite two dramatic economic declines since 2000, the Foundation’s investment services program has continued to grow and is stronger than ever.

- Being a faith-based investor. We seek to fulfill our fiduciary responsibility by ensuring that the resources we manage reflect our faith values. By sponsoring shareholder resolutions and engaging in dialogue with key corporate managers, the Foundation works to influence the way global companies conduct business, use resources and treat employees and the environment. We are in partnership with the Interfaith Center on Corporate Responsibility. ICCR, a coalition of faith-based institutional investors, raises a prophetic voice of faith by seeking to build a more just and sustainable society by integrating social values into corporate and investor decisions.

- Living out our faith in all aspects of our ministry. People, regardless of means, have concerns, hopes and a need for significance—to make a difference in the world. Our development officers, through their work with individuals and congregations, listen to donors’ and investors’ needs, share their joys, join in their vision for the future, protect their interests and reassure them of God’s presence in their lives and in the world. The Foundation seeks to bring wholeness with a personal presence to congregations, pastors and individuals.

  - Through 2012, Foundation development staff:
    - Made 523 personal visits to donors and donor prospects
    - Visited 471 congregational pastors
    - Led 94 inheritance planning seminars for congregations and other ministries
    - Preached 57 sermons on planned giving
    - Conducted 93 investment seminars for leaders of church ministries
    - Met with 46 congregations to assist in the development of endowment fund policies
    - Encouraged congregations to create their own planned giving ministries. Workshops called Blessing Generation to Generation helped better articulate for pastors and church leaders the value of permanent funds to enhance future ministries. More than a dozen of these special events were conducted in 2012 in various regions. Several similar events were held in partnership with the Center on Faith and Giving.

  - Inspiring trust, honesty and transparency. In a world fractured by mistrust of institutions and dishonest activities, the Foundation strives to be a model of trust and transparency. Committed to work with a long-term vision, the Foundation strives to preserve and protect the integrity of gifts made by donors to church causes now and forever. Maintaining accurate records, providing vital and responsive customer service and working to serve the church as an "honest broker" helps the Foundation maintain a climate of trust and honesty.

Staff Transitions

At the end of 2012, Clifford Chandler retired as assistant vice president; he had overseen the Foundation’s investment services program since joining the staff in 2001. Joe Hartman was appointed assistant vice president and they worked side-by-side in preparation for the transition. Joe, who joined the staff in 2000, carries a deep understanding of the needs of Foundation partners. In the fall of 2012, Cathie White was named the new investment services supervisor. She is a CPA and brings to the Foundation a broad experience in the banking industry. In November, Megan Gaza was hired as a staff accountant for the investment services staff.

Please contact the members of our staff to allow us the privilege to assist you, your friends, your congregation or your region in this important ministry of the stewardship of accumulated resources:
